HISTORIES, HERSTORIES, REAPPRAISING
THE LEGACY OF AMERICAN ARCHITECTURE
THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 2007 / 6:30 - 8:00 PM
NATIONAL BUILDING MUSEUM

What is involved in recovering the lost histories of 20th-century architecture? What criteria can architects and historians adopt that will more equitably evaluate architecture? How can women architects create and preserve their own legacies? For a discussion of these questions as well as to celebrate women's history month, join Gwendolyn Wright, professor, Graduate School of Architecture, Planning and Preservation, Columbia University and host of the PBS series, History Detectives; along with Gynthia Hammond, assistant professor of architectural history at Concordia University; Susan Piedmont-Palladino, associate professor at Virginia Tech's Washington/Alexandria Architecture Center and curator at the National Building Museum; and as moderator Wanda Butniski, director of the Beverly Willis Architecture Foundation. 1.5 CEU

$12 Museum and AIA members; $20 nonmembers;

$10 students. Prepaid registration required.
