

NATIONAL BUILDING MUSEUM LECTURE SERIES

women of architecture

JEANNE GANG

TRANSFORMING SKYLINES AND COMMUNITIES

Monday, March 9, 2009
6:30 – 8:00 pm

Jeanne Gang

JEANNE GANG, founder and principal of Studio Gang Architects, one of a new breed of young architects changing the profession, will discuss the transformative elements of urban buildings and neighborhoods in her native Chicago and beyond.

Gang extends into the 21st century a continuum at least four generations long of outstanding women architects who, too, were transforming the skylines across America that began at the turn of the 20th century. In her introduction, BEVERLY WILLIS, FAIA, situates Gang's oeuvre within this continuum of American women architects. 1.5 LU (AIA)

$12 Museum members and students; $20 public.
Prepaid registration required. Walk-in registration based on availability. Visit www.nbm.org or call 202.272.2448 to register.

FRONT: The Starlight Theatre at Rock Valley College. Photo by Greg Murphree. BACK: Photo by Bob Cascarelli. Both images courtesy of Studio Gang Architects.

NATIONAL BUILDING MUSEUM
401 F Street NW Washington, DC 20001
202.272.2448 / www.nbm.org
Red Line Metro, Judiciary Square

NONPROFIT ORGANIZATION
U.S. POSTAGE PAID
WASHINGTON DC
PERMIT NO. 488

Jeanne Gang on Transforming Skylines and Communities, part of the Women of Architecture series at the National Building Museum, is presented in collaboration with the Beverly Willis Architecture Foundation to celebrate Women's History Month.